PROJECTS

Physique Analyser

Python, PyTorch, MediaPipe | <https://pheno-physique.vercel.app>

- Identified user privacy as a core product constraint; made architectural decision to run all inference client-side so no images leave user's device, ensuring PDPA compliance by design without compromising functionality.
- Fine-tuned MobileNetV2 via transfer learning for 3-class physique classification; built MediaPipe landmark-based crop pipeline to normalise upper-body framing between training data and live inference, achieving ~87.5% validation accuracy.
- Defined classification criteria from domain knowledge, distinguishing physique levels by visible muscle mass and definition; trained on synthetic data to ship an MVP quickly before iterating using real-world images.

NBA MVP Predictor

Python, scikit-learn, FastAPI | <https://nba-mvp-predictor.vercel.app>

- Recognised accuracy as a misleading metric when only 1 player wins MVP per season; selected mean average precision to measure how well model surfaces actual MVP candidates, achieving 0.65 mAP (~108x over random baseline).
- Engineered domain-specific features including a team-wins proxy derived from player Win Shares; validated impact quantitatively with a 15% relative mAP improvement, demonstrating data-driven feature selection.
- Designed ML system architecture separating training, inference, and API serving into distinct components; deployed as a live website via FastAPI and Vercel.
